ValueClick Media and criteria communications inc.
form partnership to create global media opportunity

HONG KONG, TOKYO, EUROPE – ValueClick Media, one of the world's largest performance display networks and criteria communications inc. (“criteria”), a Japanese technology and ad network company (subsidiary of cyber communications inc.), today announced their agreement on cross-selling and cross-buying.

ValueClick-owned ad network ValueClick Media, offers advertisers more than 15,000 publishers delivering traffic from over 195 countries to 267 million unique users. ADJUST, the ad network operated by criteria, is the largest ad network for blue-chip media corporate sites in Japan. Based on the partnership, advertisers will be able to achieve greater global reach and to increase performance using various targeting methods.

“criteria has acquired the most advanced technology and knowledge in ad network in all of Japan. This new agreement shall provide our clients with additional opportunities; for advertisers to expose their ads globally and effectively, and for media providers to maximize their revenue with new quality advertisers,” said Hideyuki Nagasawa President and CEO of criteria. “I am confident that this new agreement shall provide both of the companies with high competitiveness.”

Carl White, CEO, ValueClick International, said, “In partnering with criteria, advertisers and agencies will be able to communicate to an even wider global audience. For ValueClick this is an exciting development in our expansion of services into the Asia Pacific region”
